1867 - Psi Omega received a charter at the 21st Convention at New York in 1867, which was held "at the Rooms of the Nu Chapter."

The 37th Charter designation began on 14 November 1867. The charter was granted on certain conditions: "Such Charter shall not be granted until a suitable and permanent lodge shall be provided, and that such lodge shall be secured on or before 1st of Jan. 1868 in default of which this action shall be considered null and void."

Foremost in the effort to receive a charter was Grand Marshal of the student body and Brother Virgil G. Bogue, Psi Omega '1868.

The existence of the new Chapter was kept secret for some time; it was not until the members felt confident of their position at the Institute that their existence was announced.

This was done at a ball game. While Brother Bogue as Grand Marshall was leading the cheering, his coat was blown open revealing his Deke pin. In the Fraternity 1910 Catalogue there is this quote: "This caused a great sensation, for the other fraternities had not, up to this point, given up hope of getting some of the men who now wore the diamond pin."

The chapter started to meet in several rooms at 271 River Street and these rooms were occupied by the chapter for over 20 years.

1947 - Following WWII, RPI saw a large expansion in attendance. It instituted an Auxiliary Dormitory Plan: "The Institute offered to assume the mortgages and deeds of existing fraternity houses and construct new houses for fraternities who were able to raise forty percent of the total cost." The first building built was the DKE House (later the Admissions Building). Other houses which came about from this initiative were the current Pi Beta Phi house, former Delta Phi house on Sherry Road, the current Acacia house, former Alpha Tau Omega house, and the Delta Tau Delta house.
